

Russia has world's second highest number of virus cases

12 May 2020

Authorities say this is because Russia was able to learn lessons from the experiences of western Europe, moving quickly to isolate travellers and people at risk, convert hospitals to treating virus patients and to test and quarantine those infected.

But critics have cast doubt on the numbers, accusing officials of under-counting by blaming virus-related deaths on other causes.

© 2020 AFP

Coronavirus. Credit: European Centers for Disease Control

Russia has the world's second-highest number of coronavirus infections after reporting another 10,899 new cases on Tuesday, according to an AFP tally.

The new cases brought Russia's total to 232,243, surpassing the number of infections in Britain and Spain and now behind only the United States which has reported more than 1.3 million, according to the tally compiled from official sources.

Russia has been reporting more than 10,000 new cases per day for over a week.

Officials say the high number of cases reflects a huge testing campaign, with some 5.8 million tests carried out so far.

More than half of the cases have been reported in Moscow and the surrounding region.

With only 2,116 virus deaths reported to date, Russia's mortality rate has been much lower in comparison with other countries with similar infection rates.

APA citation: Russia has world's second highest number of virus cases (2020, May 12) retrieved 6 May 2021 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2020-05-russia-world-highest-virus-cases.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.